

National Infrastructure Planning Association

Introduction

One of NIPA's key roles is to support Government and the infrastructure sector in bringing forward refinements to the Nationally Significant Infrastructure Project (NSIP) regime that will benefit both infrastructure developers and communities that host NSIPs.

In order to make a case for further change NIPA requires tangible examples of issues that are impacting on either developers' ability to deliver NSIPs effectively, or local planning authorities and other key stakeholders, including communities' ability to engage with the regime effectively.

We would therefore welcome your input on areas that you believe could improve the way the NSIP regime operates, including specific examples / evidence; the quantifiable impact on your projects; and any potential solutions that you think might deliver improvements. To provide your information please complete the form below.

NIPA's Policy Adviser, Jane Smith will collate Members' input into a log and use it as part of regular discussions at NIPA Board Meetings and with Government officials and the Planning Inspectorate.

On behalf of the Board, many thanks for your contribution. If you have any queries regarding this communication or the Form, please contact NIPA's Policy Adviser Jane Smith on jane.smithassociates@yahoo.co.uk.
